

Because His Truths Matter ...

On what grounds do churches typically build their doctrinal statements?

I believe it is the case that many (if not all) Bible-believing churches base their doctrines on the explicit data in Scripture, and rightly so. In fact, many churches begin their teaching position with a phrase stating, in effect, that it's the Word of God which serves as their authority for faith and practice. And yet, when the rubber hits the road—when it gets down to practical reality—is this always the case? (Please visit www.truthfoundations.com for important related appeals.)

We live in a day when doctrine is increasingly viewed as a negative aspect within the church. Because of the fruits of Postmodernity and other dark efforts to undermine the importance of Truth, much of today's culture feels doctrine, especially when held dogmatically, is a divisive thing. I sure hope we—His Church—don't allow the world to push us into its mold when it comes to this crucial concern. Because truth matters, are we still willing to stand firm on and endure in the important doctrines of the faith? But what about what some deem as not so important (doctrines of the faith)?

Is it possible our own church doctrinal statement is internally conflicted? IF our statement includes the standard for setting truths (doctrines) as being the explicit Word of God, I must confess I've observed a lot of churches which have inconsistent doctrinal statements. Please allow me to explain because a part of loving you all is a persistent appeal we walk in His Truths forever settled in heaven ... much like the prophets of old did as they lived out their divine assignment.

So again I ask: Is it possible we have conflicting entries in our doctrinal position statements as a result of buying into popular Christian tradition(s)? The following facts are examples toward that end—cases in point, if you would—and are HUGE when it comes to living out our lives in Christ TODAY.

2. If you were to look up the passages that are cited by many Pre-Tribulationalists as “imminent” passages (that is, passages teaching “imminence” – the quality of being imminent), guess what? You would not find ONE passage (in literal versions of the Bible – including the KJV, NKJV, ESV, NASB, NRSV and other more popular literal versions) using the word, “imminent.” The one place where the word “imminent” is used in the NASB – YES, there is a word bearing a close resemblance to “imminent” BUT it’s NOT used in these so-called “imminent” passages! – is found in II Peter 1:14. Note:

I did not include points 1, 3, & 4
(which I usually include on this handout) because they are not pertinent to the topic of imminence.

All the above to say, “God’s Truths Matter ... very much so!” Please see next page.

What one does find in the Word of God (concerning His Son's soon coming) is the following material.

While rejecting the doctrine of "imminence" as the Pre-Tribulationalists define the term (because this teaching that Christ could come at any time is not stated in the Word of God), it is important to note I AFFIRM the following Bible passages (addressing the sudden appearing and the soon-coming of our Lord Jesus):

Mt. 24:43-44 (cf. vv. 36-39)

Mt. 24:50

Mt. 25:13

Mk. 13:32, 33

Mk. 13:34-37

Lk. 12:40

I Cor. 16:22

Phil. 3:20

I Thes. 5:2

Titus 2:12, 13

Heb. 10:25

James 5:7-9

I Pet. 4:7

II Pet. 3:10

Rev. 1:3

Rev. 22:7

Rev. 22:12

Rev. 22:20

"Christ's soon-coming" (which is explicitly biblical) is very different than

"Christ can come at any moment." (which is the doctrine of imminence as held by the Pre-Tribulationalists).

Wayne Grudem's Systematic Theology (pp. 1095-1106) and Millard Erickson's Christian Theology (in his section on "Eschatology") present excellent material on this topic of Christ's coming at any time (imminence), signs and ready expectancy. (Grudem and Erickson are both Baptist theologians.)
